Matthew Gragg

CS362 In-class 2

I found the Pytest framework online. This framework is widely adopted by many developers. It supports the classes that unittest supports (testcase). It also supports distruvted testing for CPU cores and other features. Using this to test my calc.py would be almost identical to using unittest.